CAUSE OF THE PAMINE

The Edinburgh Review for January, in discussing prospective distress in Ireland and its relation to the famine of thirty years ago, observes: "Since that time the population of Ireland has diminished one-third and it has ceased to depend exclusively on the potato. ceased to depend exclusively on the potato.
The recurrence, therefore, of any such famine is utterly impossible. In these days of submarine telegraphs and ocean steamers food can be procured in a sixth part of the time then necessary, and with the help of railways it can be distributed in Ireland with a proportionate celerity. " During the famine years the Irish in America sent a million sterling (five million dollars) annually, and at one time a million and a half to their friends in Ireland to assist them in emigrating. Considering that the American Irish are now a far more numerous and wealthier body than forward larger sums if any necessity for such aid were to recur." The January Edinburgh Review, printed in December, and written for the most part before that time, pretty accurately foreshadows the existing condition of things and what is to follow. The "American-trish" doubtless will be most generous in their contributions; and there are many Americans who are not Irish who will gladly and bountifully engage in the good work; but it is not strange that if the question is. asked here and there why England, near and wealthy as she is, should be so ready to look for help for the Irish from afar, and so will-ing at such a cruel and critical time to be ripped in charity by givers from beyond

If these lands were excluded, Ohio would receive one hundred and thirteen thousand dollars and to taxed over three hundred thousand dollars. This would be a bag specific time. thousand dollars. This would be a bad spec-ulation for Ohio, but if the bill was just he would support it. There had been newspaper statements that the bill was to grant money to the retal States. This was absurd. If it passed, it would be pecuniarily detri-mental to all the Atlantic and Gulf States, and beneficial chiefly to the western and northwestern States. He held that the lands granted by military warrants were given as compensation in place of cash. Until the reading committees report, he had not thought the States entitled to five per cent. on any but cash sales, but he was not very sure that he would not change his opinion The discussions then closed for to-day. Senator Blaine submitted the following: Resolved That the President be respectfully requested, if in his judgment he is not incompatible with public intreets, to communicate to the senatany information 'n possession of the government touching the alleged false statistics and fabricated testimony imposed upon the Halifax commission, and used as a basis their award in the matter of the present the companion of the companion of the matter of the present the companion of the companion of

He Bows to the Divine Will. CINCINNATI, February 12.-The official announcement from Cardinal Simoni, prefect of the propaganda, of the appointment of Bishop Elder as the coadjutor of the archbishop of Cincinnati, with the right of succession, has been received here. A letter from Bishop Elder to Archbishop Purcell, received yesterday, says that he knows nothing of the appointment except what he has seen in the newspapers. He expresses warm friendship and boundless devotion to his old preceptor, and adds that if the report of his appoint-ment be true he will bow to the divine will.

THE PRUSSIAN REICHSTAG. Berlin, February 12 .- The session of the reichstag was opened to-day. The speech from the throne states that the relations of the government with all foreign powers are peaceful and friendly, and confidence is felt in the maintenance of peace, through the labors of the Berlin congress, which has been upheld, and the stipulations of the treaty of Berlin, executed in nearly all their points. The empire would sedulously and noselfishly, and conscious of its own power, continue to participate in favor of securing lasting peace for Europe, and in consonance with the paobject in view, would endeaver to procure the co-operation and guarantee of powers simi-larly disposed. The principal measures for legislation announced in the speech are; A but for establishing a biennial budget, a new military laws the prolongation of the law against socialists, and for a commercial treaty with the South Sea islands. The speech justifies the military law as a measure of security, made necessary by the increased arm-

THE BRITISH COMMONS. LONDON, February 12 -In the house LONDON, February 12—In the house of commons to day the chanceller of the exchequer denied the truth of the dispatch published this morning, stating that a treaty had been signed by which Persia would be permitted to occupy Herat in return for her engagement to assist England in Afghanistan. He said he could add nothing to his recent reply on the subject, which was that common reply on the subject, which was that communications on the subject of releasing Persia from her treaty engagement not to take possession of Herat had been under consideration, but that an under consideration, but that an under consideration is the contraction of the contraction ation, but that an understanding with Persia had not yet been reached, and it was therefore moonsistent to make any statement. Berlin, February 12.—The semi-official North German Gazette, speaking of the war-like interpretation by the French newspapers of the German army bill, says: "The French army estimates for 1870 were barely five hundred thousand million francs, while they now exceed nine hundred thousand million francs. The French army is better armed and numerically stronger than the German army. The Russian army has also been considerably increased. From the language of some of the French monarchical journals is would appear certain that if the parties they represent obtained power they would immediately plunge France into a war. In view of this danger, Germany, though earnestly peace-loving, must, for her own safety, folow the example unfortunately set by her neighbors in their immense armaments.
